One Week About Dutch Designers in Milan, curated by Ventura Projects / Organisation in Design

REM Atelier is not just a fusion between the first three letters of two first names... Artist Remty Elenga and designer Remco van Halderen created with REM Atelier a continuous and collaborative art and design project that has started in 2015. Together they create objects and situations in which functionality and the perception towards an object are explored, using decor as a tool and moving back and forth between reality and fiction. They are most famously known for 'Growing Plants Indoors'.

Growing Plants Indoors is an ongoing project that started out with a series of light boxes with three dimensional representations of banana plants in them. Growing Plants Indoors shows a depiction of a life size banana plant which seems to be trapped in it's wooden casing. In it's hyper realistic state, the plant
